PUBLISHED WEEKLY IN CANAL POINT BY PAUL RARDIN

CIRCULATING THROUGHOUT THE VAST AGRICULTURAL AREA OF PALM BEACH COUNTY

It's Done By Magic!
You Read While We Take Vacation!

Really there's nothing to this thing of printing newspapers. For more than a quarter of a century our friends have told us just that! They have wondered what we do all week when the paper comes out only once.

You are today receiving your paper on time. You aren't inconvenienced a little bit. But, all the time we are hundreds of miles from The Everglades News office enjoying a well earned and much needed rest. It's all done by magic. From our secret hide-away—surrounded by an ample amount of peace and comfort—we merely repeat a few magic words and there is produced for you your favorite newspaper. Then a few magic words and it is in the mail and on its way to you.

As you have said before, there's nothing to it! That could be true.

Plans Made To Halt Alms Nuisance

ST. PETERSBURG — Pointing out that the Florida Association for the Deaf does not sanction or approve the sale of deaf-mute alphabet cards or the soliciting of alms, Henry S. Austin, secretary, urges public support in putting a stop to the practice.

Investigation reveals that in some instances such cards are being peddled by persons who are neither deaf or mute, who pry on a sympathetic public and at the same time bring reflection on all deaf people.

The Florida Association at a recent convention voted to request the next legislature to adopt a law similar to that of the other states prohibiting the peddling of deaf-mute alphabet cards and soliciting alms since it is obnoxious to the deaf and is a nuisance and imposition as far as the public is concerned.

Those who sincerely wish to aid the deaf or mute can help those so afflicted in finding gainful employment, Mr. Austin said.

SIX AIR LINES

CLEARWATER — The sixth air line, Southern Air Express, a cargo outfit, will start using Pinellas Master Airport August 1 for flights in the United States. Dr. James E. Mooney, County Aviation Director, announced this week.

Other lines now using Pinellas Master Airport are: U. S. Airlines; Aerovias Latine Americanas (ALA); Delta Airlines; Command Air Lines and National Airlines.

In brooding chicks a good practice is to allow 1-3 to 1-2 square foot of floor space and one linear inch of trough space per chick for the first few weeks, says Frank Perry, assistant poultryman with the Florida Extension Service.

In proportion to weight, chickens drink twice as much water as beef cattle, sheep or swine.

Bardin Secures $7,956.35 County Bulldozer For Glades Road Work

PAUL RARDIN GETS MORE EQUIPMENT—And the picture above shows that the Glades commissioner is letting no grass grow under his feet when it comes to getting machinery to build roads in the Glades section of Palm Beach County. The picture was taken along the highway recently when the new $7,956.35 D-6 Caterpillar Bulldozer was delivered to the Pahokee rock pit. It is the very latest thing in bulldozer equipment and came straight from the factory. A few months ago Rardin secured a $13,000.00 Lorain dragline for work in the Glades. Several new trucks, a new jeep and other much needed equipment has been secured by the Glades commissioner since he took office a little more than a year ago. "All we need is a little time," Rardin said, "and we'll have enough equipment in this section of the county that we can actually get something done in the way of building county roads." The innocent looking chap in the picture who is admiring the new bulldozer is none other than Rardin himself.

Few People Know Controversy About Lake Okeechobee's Fresh-Salt Water

Few people know the story behind the controversy concerning the St. Johns River from the Volusia Bar North, and Lake Okeechobee.

These waters are actually fresh, and the fish which inhabit them are fresh water fish with the exception of salt water species which run up the St. Johns River from the outside salt waters. Yet by an Act of the Legislature they were both declared to be salt waters and the fish within them regardless of whether they were fresh or salt, placed under the jurisdiction of the Department of State Conservation having jurisdiction over salt water and salt water fish. For this reason, for years back fresh water fish have been taken from Lake Okeechobee and the St. Johns River from the Volusia Bar north by any manner approved by the State Board of Conservation, or the Department having jurisdiction over those waters. The Game and Fresh Water Fish Department had no jurisdiction over them whatsoever.

Yet, for years the Game and Fresh Water Fish Department have been condemned for permitting the seining of fresh water fish by commercial fishermen and the commercial fishermen have been condemned for failing to follow the methods prescribed as legal by the Game and Fresh Water Fish Department. In fact, neither the Department or the fishermen were in the wrong. By law, the Game and Fresh Water Fish Department had nothing to do with those waters any more than they had supervision over the ocean or the gulf, and the commercial fishermen were entirely within their rights to take fish from those waters in any manner approved by the Salt Water Department. Everything was according to law—but few realized it, and nothing but an Act of the Legislature could change it.

In 1941 the Legislature passed the Constitutional Amendment creating a Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission. This Amendment gave to the Commission the power to "fix bag limits and to fix open and closed seasons, on a state-wide, regional or local basis, and to regulate the manner and method of taking, transporting, storing and using birds, game, fur-bearing animals, fresh water fish, reptiles and amphibians." This Amendment was approved by the people on November 3, 1942.

Operating under the assumption that the Constitutional Amendment did not change the status of Lake Okeechobee and the St. Johns River, commercial fishing under the jurisdiction of the State Board of Conservation continued.

On February 6, 1945, the Supreme Court of Florida in the case of L. E. Bell vs. E. D. Vaughn, handed down an opinion a portion of which reads as follows:

"It is common knowledge that some species of fresh water fish inhabit both salt and fresh water and are frequently taken from estuaries, bays, streams, and bayous, adjacent to the shore. Since Section 30 vests the 'management, restoration, conservation, and regulation' of fresh water fish in the Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission, its jurisdiction for that purpose must necessarily extend over such waters as are salt or partly salt if the amendment is to be given full effect. There is nothing in Section 30 or Article Four or Chapter 21945, (the law under which Mr. Bell was brought to trial) Acts of 1943, affecting the subject matter which prohibits this and the amendment regulates the method of fishing and not the place of fishing."

Clothed with this power, the Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission immediately began taking steps to take over the control of fresh water fish regardless of where fresh water fish were found.

In order to be absolutely fair, the Regulations approved by the Commission were made effective as of October 1, 1946, the date on which licenses issued by the State Board of Conservation would expire. By doing this, commercial fishermen who have fished Lake Okeechobee and that portion of the St. Johns River from the Volusia Bar North for years were given ample time to change their place of operation during the life of their State Board of Conservation license, thereby not having to forfeit any part of the money which they had paid for their license.

Catfish may still be taken commercially from these waters, but they must be taken under methods approved by the Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission rather than by methods approved by the State Board of Conservation.

The Commission has also approved an amendment to their Rules and Regulations which will stop the sale of fresh water fish, except catfish, garfish, mudfish or black fish, effective October 1, 1946. This action was taken in order to guard the interest of the sports fishermen in Florida, and to prevent Florida fresh water fish from being completely despoiled by commercial fishermen. Many other States in the Union have taken similar action.

Senator Pepper's Departure

In his zealous march further and further to the extreme left, Florida's junior senator has given aid and encouragement to radical elements whose ideologies run counter to the best in our American democracy. A majority of the people of Florida now feel that Senator Pepper's perspective is warped, that he is playing the role of opportunist, that he has departed too far from bedrock democracy.

Certainly, this crucial moment is no time for men in positions like Senator Pepper's to be giving encouragement to radical leaders whose programs are far from being programs of stability and constructiveness.

There was a time, notably when Senator Pepper was last up for reelection, that his friends forgave many of his shortcomings and supported him with the explanation that he was a misunderstood prophet who would be vindicated in due time.

There has been plenty of time for vindication, but his derelictions become more and more and more lamentable. He has brought more and more disappointment and embarrassment to some of his best friends and most ardent supporters in Florida.—Lakeland Ledger.

Race Problem In Reverse

"Imagine the situation," writes John Temple Graves, "if the percentage of negro population to total in each state, North and South, were about 15 or 20 rather than 50 in Mississippi and four in New York, 35 in Georgia and five in Illinois, as now. If that should happen, I would be willing to place a small bet that the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People would find it necessary to give far more attention to fighting race discrimination in the North than in the South and would have to have its headquarters in Birmingham rather than New York because of the lesser racial feeling here."

And that situation may yet arise if cotton picking machinery and celery cutting machinery continues to be substituted for negro labor.—Sanford Herald.

Report To The Widow

Two men bearing identical names, one a clergyman and the other a businessman, lived in the same city.

The clergyman died at about the time the businessman took a trip to California. Upon reaching the Pacific coast he sent his wife a telegram informing her of his safe journey. Unfortunately the message was delivered to the widow of the clergyman. Imagine the good woman's shock when she read: "Arrived safely—heat terrific."—Coronet.

Double Surprise

When the nylon scramble was the sole topic of the hour we met a woman who insists she had worn the same pair of stockings for ten years. "Every winter," she explained, "I knit new feet in them, and every summer I knit new tops for them, and you'd be surprised how much wear you can get out of a pair of stockings that way." We would, and we would be even more greatly surprised on hearing that even a single other woman was following her example.—Huron Expositor.

TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY

(By Russell Kay)

No division of the Florida State Chamber of Commerce is more active or does a better job than the Tourist and Development Division headed by Joe Adams, who operates the El Commodore Hotel in Miami, and this year is Vice-President of the American Hotel Men's Association.

At a meeting in Tampa last week the Division reviewed the State's tourist development effort and considered plans for the coming season. The meeting was one of the best attended and most enthusiastic ever staged.

Wasting no time, the session got down to business at an 8:30 breakfast after which the group immediately adjourned to the conference room to listen to reports of committees, engage in round table discussions and map plans for future activity.

Roy C. Beckman, Director of the Florida State Advertising Commission, reviewed the work done by the Commission to date and explained in detail how inquiries were handled. His talk was well received and the Commission was given a vote of confidence.

Chamber of Commerce executives from points as distant as Miami and Pensacola made reports on conditions in their sections and compared notes. All indications pointed to another big tourist season, but secretaries reported much improvement in facilities for handling visitors and expressed confidence that all who came next season would be able to find rooms and urged that the practice of frightening tourists away with stories of folks sleeping in their cars, in hotel lobbies and parks be discouraged.

Pointing out that it was always advisable to urge folks to make advance reservations if possible, they contended that thousands without reservations could still be taken care of and told how stories of overcrowding and lack of facilities, last season kept thousands away and shortened the season.

Railroad and bus officials expressed confidence that their facilities for handling traffic would be much improved by fall. All lines now have new equipment ordered and plan to operate on faster and more frequent schedules. All lines plan a heavy advertising schedule designed to bring travel to Florida.

The silly action of Georgia officials in placing a quarantine on Florida was deplored and secretaries reported that it resulted in sharply retarding the summer tourist business of Jacksonville, Beach, Daytona, Beach and other points. It was pointed out that such a quarantine was never really invoked but publicity given the announcement was sufficient to frighten thousands away who otherwise would have vacationed here this summer.

Discussing facilities offered motor tourists, it was brought out that the conditions of many rest rooms in the state were disgraceful. Tourist Bureaus and Chambers of Commerce reported more complaints on this score than ever before and expressed the hope that something could be done to rectify the situation before the heavy influx of motor tourists arrived next season.

A representative of the Petroleum said that company owned and operated filling stations of such companies as Gulf, Pure Oil, Standard and others were inspected regularly and kept in a sanitary condition, but with no authority over independent stations, it was difficult to get operators to keep their places clean. T. B. O'Steen of the Florida Greyhound Lines said the fault was not all on the side of the local interests and contended that the traveling public was largely to blame. Operators of public wash rooms in hotels, bus stations, tourist camps and travel terminals have found that keeping such places clean and sanitary is one of their most difficult problems due primarily to lack of co-operation on the part of the traveling public. It was pointed out that women were the worst offenders in this respect and a campaign to educate the public was advocated.

Altogether the meeting was a great success. Much constructive thought was developed and its effect will be felt in the better handling of Florida's tourist business this coming season.

NEARLY HALF BILLION

WEST PALM BEACH — State Agriculture Commissioner Nathan Mayo disclosed here last week that Florida produced $450,518,000 worth of farm commodities in 1945-46. Seventy kinds of fruit and sixty kinds of vegetables were grown during the year.

Take Your Pulse

Every time your heart beats, one of 800,000,000 people dies of starvation somewhere in the world!

You can DO something about it in your own kitchen!

Use and reuse your cooking fats, and when you have gotten all their food value, turn them in to your meat dealer for four cents per pound. Your salvaged fats are used here at home to help make soap and other peacetime necessities. Your fat salvage releases fresh food fats for distribution abroad. Save every drop to help yourself and to relieve suffering and shortages throughout the world.

If you've never been hungry—if you've never missed a meal, it is hard to realize how acute a hunger pain can be. Those of us here in the Everglades who are blessed with much food could do a great deal to ease the hunger pains of millions if we but conserve food. Vulgarity And Profanity Show Need For Greater Reverence

*The Sunday School Lesson for July 28 was, "Jesus and Reverence For Spiritual Values"—Exodus 20:7; Leviticus 19:12; Matthew 5:33-37; Mark 7:5-8; 8:34-36.

By WILLIAM T. ELLIS and EARL L. DOUGLASS

Many of our good magazines have gone not only dirty but also profane. They carry the coarse speech of the gutter into the parlors of refined people who still have standards of decency. It might change the situation with some of these publications were their editors (the newspapers maintain a higher level than the "class" periodicals) to receive enough letters after this fashion: "Dear Sir: It may surprise you to know that among your readers are some persons who do not swear or talk sex; and who still adhere to our historic standards of decency."

"These folks, who accept the authority of the Bible and of our traditions of gentility, do not care to have the minds of their young people corrupted by the sort of thing that has become commonplace in your pages. So we part company with you."

Catholics have a "Holy Name Society," the members of which are pledged to observe the Commandment, "Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain"; and who reverence the holy name of Jesus. All other churches would do well to follow this example. For loose profanity is on the increase. Even girls and women now sully their lips by swearing. The day is gone wherein no gentleman would insult a lady by the use of profanity in her presence.

Too Stupid For Words

On lesser criticism of prevalent profanity is that it reveals mental deficiency. Men swear recklessly because they have not the vocabulary wherewith to express their exact meaning. And usually such folk are a bit short on ideas. I have always prided myself that I could voice my opinions more clearly and effectively than by the meaningless stream of profanity in common use. I once told a man, "You are a poisonous specimen of the lower order of fauna." That bit.

Of course, the greatest reason for abstinence from profanity is that it violates the fundamental moral law and is a sin against God. It affronts the Holy Name. It insults the Divine sovereignty. It repudiates our standard prayer, "Hallowed be Thy Name." It is irreverent and irreligious. It reveals a lack of brains: the sheer stupidity of profanity should remove it from the vocabulary of all who profess intelligence. And always over against it stands the sublime affirmation, "I am Jehovah."

It is no light thing to affront the sacredness of the Supreme Being, before whose presence the angels veil their faces, as they cry "Holy! Holy! Holy!" A deep sense of reverence toward Almighty God is a first essential of clear thinking and good living. Men cannot worship the God in whose name they curse God's children. Because He is God He cannot let go unpunished any offense to His sovereignty. There is no room within the circle of His favor for "Cussing Christians." "Holy and reverend is His Name."

In the Witness Box

Lawyers say that perjury is so common in courtrooms that it is seldom remarked upon. This disregard for the solemnity of an oath is of a piece with the prevailing looseness of speech. We all talk too much, and too heedlessly. "Words mean nothing to him," said a YMCA secretary to me concerning a certain orator. I once knew a preacher who had the whole wide and high vocabulary of religion at his tongue's end, and never a conviction behind it. "Pious talk" may become like a parrot's chatter.

There is reason for the teaching of Jesus about simple speech: His "yea, yea; nay, nay." For words weigh only according to the weight of the personality behind them.

In Peking one day old Dr. Sheffield, a veteran missionary, said to me "The orientals are never profane. They do not take the names of their gods in vain. They use filthy reviling words, but they do not swear." One more lesson from the East.

It is true that most profanity is meaningless. I have got quicker action out of dilatory Chinese coolies by vigorously conjugating a Greek verb than I could have secured by a stream of profanity. A few evenings ago the employer of a gang of dock workers said that he sometimes used profanity in stirring up his men but that it does not mean a thing to him. He uses the most awesome words in human speech without any regard to their real significance; which I counted a serious confession. Most profanity is really meaningless, and a symptom of our loose-mouthed generation. For it is ~~an~~ against a holy God.

How Your Television "Commercial" Will Look

To enhance an impressive list of manufacturing "firsts," Chevrolet now engages in another pioneering venture as the first motor car manufacturer to sponsor a regular commercial television show. Admittedly an exploratory venture to evaluate the possibilities of television as an advertising medium, these broadcasts were the first employing live talent to be sponsored by any automobile producer. Four weekly shows were staged by Chevrolet and broadcast through the facilities of the American Broadcasting Company's television network. The shows were televised at the Dumont Studios in New York for the three stations currently teamed in the ABC television network. Shown above is a scene from the second of the series, a half-hour program titled "Roads to Romance."

Kitchen Is Busiest And Most Dangerous Room In The House

The kitchen is the busiest room in the home—especially during summer canning season—and also the most dangerous room, according to safety advisors of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. This week, while National Farm Safety Week is being observed, housewives may well give earnest consideration to kitchen accident figures and ways to make their kitchens safer.

Almost one out of every five home accidents causing injuries serious enough to require hospital care occurs in the kitchen, according to National Safety Council estimates. These accidents include falls, burns and scalds, collisions and bumps, cuts, bruises and poisoning.

More than a fourth of these kitchen accidents are burns and scalds, with burns by steam and hot liquids the most frequent. Carelessness more often is the cause of these burns than poor kitchen equipment. Simple precautions that will prevent many burns are: lifting the lid of kettles so that the steam escapes away from rather than toward the worker; turning pot handles so that they do not extend over the edge of the stove; using pot holders that are thick and dry.

Children as well as housewives are among the chief sufferers from kitchen scalds and burns. Safety advisers agree that the kitchen is not a safe place for young children to play unless a far corner, away from the stove, is fenced off for them.

About one in ten of the falls causing death or injury takes place in the kitchen. Hazards causing fall are highly polished linoleum or floors made slippery by spilled grease, water or fruit peelings; also the use of chairs, stools or tables instead of safe kitchen ladders; reaching high shelves. Avoid much waxing of kitchen floors, however attractive it may be, say safety advisors, and wipe up anything spilled on the floor immediately. Arrange adequate and orderly storage places so that no articles are left on the floor as tripping hazards. Keep knives and matches stored out of the way of children.

VETERAN AGENT IN ORANGE COUNTY TO RETIRE AUGUST 31

ORLANDO.—K. C. Moore, a veteran of 25 years with the Florida Agricultural Extension Service, the last 20 of which have been as county agent in Orange County, is retiring August 31. His request for retirement has been approved by A. P. Spencer, director of extension in Gainesville, and other state authorities.

After having worked with the Virginia Extension Service, Mr. Moore became county agent in Marion County, Florida, on March 16, 1921. On February 16, 1926, he was made district agent and on October 11 of the same year he took up his duties in Orange County.

During the last 20 years he has taken a leading part in citrus fertilizing and disease and insect control demonstrations, developed a large number of good 4-H club boys and worked with dairymen, truck growers and other farmers. In August, 1945, he sponsored DDT spraying and dipping of all cattle and barns in Orange County. Parts of surrounding counties also joined the pest control project and 27,000 cattle were sprayed or dipped in the biggest demonstration of its kind in the United States. Flies and some other pests were controlled for two months.

Problems of the Family will be highlighted at the annual meeting of the State Conference of Social Work in Tampa the morning of June 6th through the 11th. Among the speakers will be Mrs. Doris Klemmer, Florida representative of the American Institute of Family Relations, Los Angeles, who will describe the qualifications and methods of the trained marriage counsellor.

PASTURES, CITRUS, AND PINEAPPLES SHOWING VERY GOOD GROWTH

SEBRING.—Pastures, citrus, and pineapples are holding the agricultural spotlight in Highlands County at this time, according to County Agent V. T. Ozer.

Although they did not get as much rain as they wanted during the past month, cattlemen are now working their pastures, chopping weeds and planting improved grasses. They are so much interested in improving their grazing that they would plant far more acreage than they will be able to this season if they had the machinery and labor for doing the job, the county agent reported.

With the exception of some rather poor quality fruit early in the season, citrus growers produced satisfactory crops in 1945-46 and they are hoping for even better crops and higher quality fruit during the 1946-47 season. Many growers have fertilized their groves heavily and have good cover crops now growing in them. Rainfall during the past month was somewhat sparse, requiring use of irrigation facilities where available.

The Highlands pineapple crop is developing good size and quality. Pineapple growers have organized and agreed to ship only sound, attractive fruits. After the harvest they are going to develop some research work in cooperation with the Florida Agricultural Experiment Station on planting methods, fertilization, and disease control.

Can you imagine a fresh hen-egg with a green yolk? It is possible to produce eggs with varied colored yolk by feeding hens certain formulas. This was proved by tests in the laboratories of the Ralston Purina Company, one of the world's largest producers of poultry feed.

Floridians are increasingly interested in the development of relatively unknown but nutritionally valuable fruit crops such as guavas, avocados, papayas and mangos—Miss Isabelle Thursby, economist in food conservation, State Agricultural Extension Service.

Cinematic Chatter

By Malcolm Millar

For the week of August 11-12, which starts with the Sunday-Monday screening, at the Prince Theatre, I pick "Lost Weekend", not only as the picture of the week, but the picture of the year. . . . And I know you'll agree with me if you attend the cinema that week and stay through the show. . . . Which you will, it is so interesting.

The stars of the piece are Ray Milland and Jane Wyman. (I hope Jane hears me when I say: "She is one of the loveliest girls in all of filmdom.") The featured players (to name a few) are Phillip Terry, Howard da Silva, Doris Dowling, Frank Faylen, and Billy Wilder directed it masterfully.

"The Lost Weekend" tells the unusual and unforgettable story of five days out of a young man's life—five days of horror and of such intensely dramatic events as to make their reproduction on the screen an accomplishment of rare and heart-tugging dramatic interest.

Milland, cast in the leading role, is a sensitive young man, intelligent and of good morals, who abandons himself to five days of attempt to satisfy an insatiable hunger for liquor.

The devotion of his sweetheart, the patient understanding of his brother, cannot keep him from going off the deep end into an abyss never yet interpreted on the screen. It is not until he sinks to the depth of degradation that he finds himself. By then, according to reports, you will have lived through a picture experience so exciting you'll never forget it.

For both Ray Milland and Jane Wyman their roles in "The Lost Weekend" represent their debut in the dramatic field of acting, as each has specialized heretofore in romantic and light mediums.

I know you are going to go through an unforgettable experience when you sit out "The Lost Weekend."

See you at the movies—Mal.

Tyn Cobb, who was nominated for the Legislature from Orange county has decided to wait until he is formally elected in November, before discussing his legislative program for the 1947 session.

REDUCE ACCIDENTS ON FARM, INSURE SAFETY BY REMOVING HAZARDS

GAINESVILLE—Recognize and remove hazards on the farm during National Farm Safety Week or whenever they occur and be safer throughout the year. This is the suggestion of L. T. Nieland, safety specialist with the Florida Agricultural Extension Service.

Farm work is hazardous, he declares, resulting in more fatal accidents than any other major industry. Accidents on the home front caused more casualties during the war than did war on the battlefronts, Nieland says.

In addition to having one of the highest accident rates of all occupations, farm workers generally are not covered by workmen's compensation, Nieland points out. The loss to the individual, most of which can be prevented, is material.

But every hour lost as a result of farm accidents means less food for the starving, less food for us, as Secretary of Agriculture Anderson has pointed out. The Secretary adds that farm accidents must be reduced.

Elimination of one hazard a day, especially during National Farm Safety Week, will go far towards reducing the death and disabling accident rate, Nieland declares. The National Safety Council points out that accidents are invited by carelessness and indifference.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture and national farm organizations have joined with the National Safety Council in observing the week of July 21 to 21 as National Farm Safety Week, which has been proclaimed by President Truman.

PIGS BEING FED FOR OCALA FAT HOG SHOW AND SALE OCT. 15-16

OCALA—Breeding pigs are already on feed for eighth annual fat hog show and sale here October 15 and 16, according to David Baillie, Jr., manager for the Southeastern Fat Stock Show and Sale, sponsor of the event.

A consignment sale of registered Durocs will be held the following day, October 17, by the Florida State Duroc Breeders' Association. Henry Gatrell of Fairfield, association president, hopes to have between 35 and 45 open gilts, bred gilts and young boars consigned.

The fat hog show will feature especially the products of 4-H club members and Future Farmers, and judging contests for these groups will be staged at 10 a. m. October 16.

Breeding pigs intended for the show should have been in the hands of prospective exhibitors by July 1. Fat barrows and butcher gilts must be obtained before August 1.

John Wallace Griffin of Daytona Beach has been appointed archaeologist for the Florida Park Service it was announced this week by State Director Lewis G. Scoggins.

YOU CAN GIVE, IF YOU SAVE!

Yes, Lady—that is what it amounts to, when you save your used kitchen fats. Fats and oils are short the world over, and 800,000,000 people are in imminent danger of starvation.

YOU GIVE others a chance to live, when you eat less bread and when you curtail your use of fats and oils. Use and reuse what you buy, and turn your used fat in to your meat dealer for four cents a pound.

REMEMBER—your salvaged fats are used here at home to help make soap and other peacetime necessities. Save every drop to help yourself and to relieve suffering and shortages throughout the world.

Here in the lush Everglades—with food growing on every hand—it is hard to realize that millions of people are starving. Let's save just a little food here and a little there in order that these millions may exist
